

Dear Friend, Irrigate your beautiful trees they need water .

We advise watering newly planted olive trees every third day for the first two weeks. Then, cut back the watering to once weekly after the first two weeks. If you have a mature olive tree, in summer it will need watering every 3-5 Days if keeping in a pot.

In general, on an average year with average rains, each olive tree should be watered every 10-15 days during the Summer, with 20 liters of water per square meter of the tree crop. Younger trees (below five years of age) need irrigation more frequently (every week during the Summer). During other seasons, watering once a month should be more than enough.

OLIVY hopes this article was helpful.
Made by Bouhawel Alaa